This manual is dedicated to all of the people in rural Alaska who have committed time and energy to improving the environmental health conditions of their communities.

Environmental Change is about Commitment

"There were two or three times that my boat battery didn't start up my boat motor and my boyfriend and I used poles and paddles to move our aluminum boat. He said 'Sarah is an environmentalist and we save on gasoline.' So, we worked hard to get our boat around, we spent lots of time and effort. Then we really worked to get the driftwood and the fish, not to mention the body muscles that complain after we made many many extra body movements to get our boat home again."

Acknowledgements

Many people have offered their time, knowledge, stories and support in the preparation of this manual. Simon Mawson and Bill Stokes of the State of Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation, Rural Issues Program provided overall technical guidance in the production of this manual. Your help in making this a useful and informative document is greatly appreciated. Thank you!

Most of the photographs included in this manual were borrowed from Bill Stokes' collection taken during his environmental assessment work in rural Alaska. Thank you.
